

Everyone Lives in a Watershed

A watershed is an area of land where water flows to the same location.

Everywhere you stand is part of a watershed...from your front doorstep...to the local park...to the stream down the road.

The quality of our water is linked to how we use the watershed surrounding us. Pollution in one stream becomes pollution in all waterways. Everything is interconnected.

Illustration courtesy of the City of Lansing, Michigan

